Elementary Class

Dear Parents,

Spring is here! Flowers blooming. Brighter evenings. Birds chirping. Thank you, Lord for the many blessings that come in spring. After a nice, long break, I am looking forward to starting up classes again with a renewed energy.

As always, I thank you parents for all you've done and continue do to keep the whole YCS community safe. Sometimes things are hard, but we have each other to help make it through.

The highly anticipated field trip to Kidzania is finally upon us. To help make the trip more impactful, we will be discussing careers in class this month. Please continue career conversations at home to help guide and inspire these children to great heights.

Speaking of conversations at home, we will be reading Little Pilgrim's Progress in class this month. It follows a boy's journey in finding and keeping faith in the King. I anticipate many similar questions from the students. I ask you parents to take this opportunity to really seek with your children what being a Christian means, the struggles that occur in life, and the indescribable joy that keeps people strong to the end.

April also brings the best holiday of all: Easter! I pray that you will find a church or community to be with to celebrate being freed from the burden of sin and having a way to eternal life with God our Father. Hallelujah!
